

Executive health

Next-level care for executives with state-of-the-art exams and diagnostics

The Executive Evaluation Center assists businesses and individuals in maximizing the probability of good health and long life. This goal is achieved by educating each individual on the current status of their health, as well as the steps required to optimize their future.

Providing for the early detection and diagnosis of unsuspected disease, and enhancing an executive's or individual's ability to control and prevent disease in the future, will secure and protect the most important asset any individual or corporation possesses, their own good health.

Our approach

Every executive or individual will benefit from our comprehensive one-day medical evaluation, which includes a complete history and physical examination supplemented with more than a dozen state-of-the-art, high-tech diagnostic studies not usually associated with routine annual examinations. The day culminates with an in-depth, one-on-one personal assessment and discussion of medical status by an experienced and highly trained physician, board certified in the field of internal medicine.
